

Ron Harrison

Jerram Carr

This character was designed for an unannounced title by Surtrflame.

Name: Ron Harrison

Role: Announcer

Age: 62

Gender: Male (he/him)

Keywords: "Kids these days", concerned dad, "I'm getting too old for this", grumpy, calm and collected, professional

Overview:

Ron is a caster from a bygone era. He is most well acquainted with American football, baseball, hockey, etc. so commentating this new sport of running around a track as fast as you can, bouncing off walls, is really something foreign to him. He treats this all as one big strange issue to solve.

Despite being a grumpy old man, Ron still has a soft spot and to him the most important thing is that everyone has a good time and no one gets hurt.

Appearance:

- Clean suit and tie.
- Balding and not too embarrassed about it.
- Always squinting.
- Crows feet and wrinkles on face.
- Clean shaven.
- Salt and Pepper hair.
- Dad bod, a little chub.

Dog

Jerram Carr

This character was designed for an unannounced title by Surtrflame.

Name: Dog

Role: Announcer

Age: 4

Gender: Female (she/her)

Keywords: Chaotic, child-like, genuine, troublemaker, just happy to be here, golden retriever, rebellious, anti-authority, free, non-threatening emotionally

Overview:

Dog is the result of fool-hardy corporate scientific experimentation. While she does resemble a house-pet, Dog was not created from one. She is a mess of genetic material. While Dog appears incredibly dangerous, potentially with claws, large teeth, and the body of a predator, she is in fact a complete sweetheart who just wants to cuddle up and get pats on her head.

Dog now casts the races as a commentator, and while she is not remotely qualified for the job on paper, her pep and energy far outweigh her lack of skills.

Appearance:

- Dog is in the shape of a canine, with 4 limbs and a large mouth.
- Her body is goopy and viscous in texture and mono-tone in color, but it shifts(sort of like a lava lamp).
- Despite her viscosity, she still appears to be muscly and strong. She looks like an apex-predator.
- Lots of spines. Like a mad-max car.

- Fang-like teeth: very sharp and pointy. Her mouth is always sloppy.
- More than 2 eyes. Like a cute spider.
- A big tail that flails about with energy, with big floppy ears to match.